STATINTL

Contracting Officer
Washington, D. C.

Dear [redacted]

STATINTL

As you know, we have a relatively small staff of electronic technicians and only one machinist. From time to time these men become overloaded. In circumstances where the overload appears to be temporary, it is more advantageous to the Government to pay the standard time and a half premium for overtime work during such temporary periods of overload rather than to hire additional employees who would not be fully occupied in periods of normal work load. Naturally, whenever we find the predictable work load sufficient to justify additional employees, we engage the number reasonably required and cease using overtime labor.

Under Paragraph 25 of the General Provisions of Contract [redacted] approval from the Contracting Officer is necessary for the payment of overtime premium wages for overtime work.

May we therefore have your approval to pay overtime in the circumstances outlined above.

Very truly yours,

STATINTL
